Dear Sir:

I am informed that the corrected galley proof of my article for the July Reviews of Modern Physics, which I sent you about two months ago, has been lost in the mails. I am therefore enclosing my second copy of the proof, with the required corrections in ink. The pencilled comments are notes I made before preparing the corrected proof which is lost, and should be ignored. The original M.S. is, of course, also lost.

In case my order for reprints was lost too, I would like 200, with covers.

Sincerely yours,

Hugh Everett, III
